Llanuwchllyn Express No.168

340 copies printed - the highest ever print run. A number remain in hand for sale/promotions/new members. Some very kind words have been received in response to the new issue. Thank you to all who contributed to its content.

Llanuwchllyn Express No.169

In development. I should be pleased to receive exclusive images on the following subjects:

- Engineering developments
- Re-roofing the loco workshop -
- Engineer's train - landscape photographs for potential cover/general use
- First trains of the season - landscape photographs for potential cover/general use
- Max and Marian

BLRS Print

19 copies printed, 13 sold to date. All costs have been met; the print is around £80 in the black. I have three cheques to forward to Dave Scotson. I have another image for a possible future print - plus Christmas card. I will look into their viability.

Llanuwchllyn Express - Special Edition II

I have compiled an entire edition that could be launched as LE-SE2. It is a compilation of the BLR website's updates for 2020, telling an interesting tale as an unusual year evolves. It is 36 pages. I have quotes for printing. It is entirely viable and would make its costs back - and if enough copies sell it would make some profit. I could launch an enhanced package (as with the last LE-SE) with a tea-towel, archive images and BLRS Newsletter No.2 reprint. The enhanced package is where some larger pennies can be raised.

Given that the words originate from the BLR I thought it might be an appropriate idea to tie any funds raised directly to an achievable BLR project.

Once any sales period is over LE-SE could go on the website for low-cost download and be given away in a future membership promotion.
